MEET THE ALLEN'S

Ever hear a story and think, "man, this would make an amazing movie"? Well that is pretty much the case when you hear the tale of high school sweethearts, Stephanie and Daniel Allen.

A SOUTHERN GENTLEMAN (AND HIS LOVELY WIFE) — BY KATE ALGER

After graduating, they tried to make a long distance relationship work – she moved to Atlanta to attend The Art Institute and he started traveling for his modeling career. Eventually, distance won and their contact dwindled. Fast forward ten years, they found themselves back in each other's lives and nuptials under an oak tree on the now Allenbrooke Farm quickly followed. The couple have switched gears professionally and started a successful Certified Naturally Grown, Community-Shared Agriculture (CSA), which sold out quickly for the 2013 season. The Allen's have taken their new craft to heart as they want to ensure the highest quality of goods are nourishing the families in the town they have grown up and proud to call home.

It has been a busy day on the farm. What would we find you doing to let off some steam?

STEPHANIE: Embroidering or sitting in a rocking chair with mini-piglets in my lap. DAN: Walking the gardens or rocking in a chair on the porch.

The one thing that I could eat every day is...

STEPHANIE: Tomato pie or Mexican with our basil, heirloom tomatoes and awesome peppers! DAN: Grass fed steak, our heirloom fingerling potatoes and sliced heirloom tomatoes.

The one thing I never leave the house without is...

STEPHANIE: I try to not leave without having myself at least minimally put together. Makes a girl feel good and you never know who you will run into! DAN: Pants!

It's a long, hot day of work and you aren't in the mood to cook, where would we find you for dinner?

STEPHANIE: Pueblo Real or Tito's . DAN: Cracker Barrel

What is the funniest high school memory you have of each other?

STEPHANIE: He drove a checker cab, I loved that car. I'd break into it and steal his overalls and wear those when I got "sent home" for my skirts/shorts being too short. DAN: We went on a double date to presentation. I got the wrong tuxedo pants that were way too short.

The one thing that I have yet to do in your hometown is what?

STEPHANIE: Grand Ole Opry! DAN: Nashville Shores.

The most exciting thing that has happened to me this year has been...

STEPHANIE: We are pregnant! Something we were told would not happen for us! DAN: What she said, wife pregars! [R]
